THE EVENING WORLD received a letter last week from one of its readers who makes daily trips on the East New York line, in which the writer said that the Van Sicien avenue station is a disgrace to the road. He is right. Of all the dirty stations on the Union Com-pany's system the Van Sicklen avenue station or all the dirty stations on the Union Company's system the Van Sicklen avenue station is probably the worst. It is the terminus of the line, and dirt and debris is heaped upon the two platforms, which seem to be made to answer the purpose of repair and cleaning shops. Lint and waste is scattered about and the board hooring is slippery and soaked with oil. The Halsey street and Gates avenue stations are frequently hearity as toad.

An appliance which is used extensively by the Brooklyn klewated roads, and which is a source of a good deal of annoyance to the public is that vexatious little machine, the turnstile. There is nothing more provoking when a person is in a hurry to catch a train and, breathless from running up a flight of stairs, when every second counts, finds limmelf bumpling against this machine, and as result reacases his train just a moment too late. When there is a crowd waiting to get through the situation is, of course, a great deal worse. Crowds are always eager and impatient, and often two or three persons trying to squeeze through the turnstiles at the same time block the passage completely.

If the companies would remove the turnstiles from the stations where the traffic is heavy it would not be so bad. For instance, at the vanderwilt avenue station of the Union road. During the Winter, when numerous athletic shows are civen at the Clermont Avenue Rink, it is one of the busiest stations along the line, particularly afternightall. A crowd of from 2,000 to 3,500 people always attend these shows, and a great proportion of that crowd rides home on the Elevated. After the show there is a pelimeli rush for the station, the crowd goes tearing up the stairway and through the door and comes to a sudden halt at the turnstile. The rear perful out before it can get through.

through.

There is always more or less delay in a crowd, which is made worse by the turnstile. A man in a hurry will often buy a return ticket in order to avoid delay at the window coming back. If there is a turnstile then his return ticket avails him nothing.

The turnstile may be a labor-saving machine for the L companies, but it certainly makes labor for the patrons of the companies.

If any patron of the Boroklyn L roads will address a letter to The Kunning World address a letter to The Kunning World Scholler, and the patron of the Boroklyn L roads will address a letter to The Kunning World Scholler, and the patron of the Boroklyn L roads will address a letter to The Kunning World Scholler, and the published,

W. D. LONG DISGUSTED.

He Scores the Management of Brook

have noticed that the management of the Elevated Railroad system has been becoming worse and worse every day.

THE EVENING WORLD IS a noble little paper for taking up the fight, and I can sincerely assure you that most Brooklynites feet grate-iul for what it is doing in their behalf by endeavoring to secure better facilities for transportation, and also to force the removal of the filth in and around the stations. Take, for instance, the Van Sielen avenue station of the Union "L" Hoad. Is it not a veritable disgrace to the management? There is coal, filth, ashes, and all manare of dict all around. Are the managers blind? It Seems so.

Seems 50.

Another matter to which I wish to call your kind attention is this: Cannot better connections be made at Breadway and Myrtle avenue? I come down on a Broadway train to Myrtle avenue, and there I have invariably to wait ten ininutes or more for a Futton Ferry train to come along. The same is true of high trains. frain to come along. The same is true of hight trains.

The Lexington avenue, Brondway and Myrtle avenue branches are in the hands of a parcet of roughs. The guards are mostly a lot of brutes, who know no manners and show no respect, even to ladies.

I, for one, propose boycotting the "L" roads.

I, for one, peopose boycotting the "L" roads and patrocking the surface cars until the managers of the former come to their senses and of ustice to the public in general. Very respectfully yours.

Apparently the platforms are not swept oftener than once a week, and when they are swept the work is certainly done in a very indifferent manner. The Nostrand, Tompkins, Sumaer and Reid avenue are some of the stations that appear to have been neglected for a considerable period. Lumps of coal, ashes and scraps and fragments of various kinds are scattered over the platforms.

All along the tracks, too, for a distance of a mile or more are scattered lumps of anthracite, some of them big enough to do considerable injury should they fall and strike a passer-by on the head. They were probably before Dr. Kretzschmar said:

THE BROOKLYN THEATRES.

"La Tosca" was chosen by Mme. Bernhardt for her initial performance at the Columbia Theatre last night. It was not until the third act that she exhibited her strong dramatic powers. Then the audience broke forth in tumultuous appliause. Albert Darmont gave a strong impersonation of Scarpia; Munic did artistic work as the Marquis Attavanti, and Fleury was acceptable as Cavaradossi. Tonight "Cleopatra" will be given.

COL. SINN'S NEW PARK THEATRE. "Mr. Potter of Texas" introduced bimself to a large audience of Brooklynites at the Park Theatre last night. The play was well presented by Mr. Sanger's company, which included Joseph Wheelock, Jeffrys Lewis, Frank Alken, Joseph Wheelock, Jeffrys Lewis, Frank Alken, Joseph Wheelock, Jeffrys St. Mark's Square in Venice, with the canniby moonlight, and the harby at Boulogne were the principal scenic features of the production.

THE AMPHION.

Rose Coghlan moved over to the Eastern District last evening and began a week's engagement at the Amphion in "Dorothy's Dilemma." The play was staged in the same manner as at the Park Theatre last week, and both star and her supporting company were received with enthusiasm. Saturday aftersoon and evening Rose Coghlan and her brother Charles will be seen in "Lady Barter" and "Nance Oldfield."

BEDFORD AVENUE THEATRE. Three plays were included in the bill presented at the Bedford Avenue Theatre last night by Lydia Thompson and her company. The pleces were "A Bad Penny," "Uncle pan" and "A Brics-Brac Shop." Franklyn Roberts, Alf Hampton, Henry Hanscombe, Emnte Fossette, Miss Lee Jarvis and Annie Darnley were among the support.

THE WILLIS-NATHAN FIGHT.

Appointment of William Leaycraft s Victory for the Naval Officer. Naval Officer Theodore B. Willis has score a point against his local political adversary, Internal Revenue Collector Ernst Nathan. Glover testified that he had moved his bedding from 131 Kent street to 155 Franklin street. When the lawyer asked him where he moved the other articles he replied, "none of your business." He was allowed to step down, and the prosecution restad.

Counsel for the defense stated to the jury that he expected to prove that though Glover was the father of Hattle Gay's child the offense had been condoned by his wife. Miss Gay had compelled him to support the child. She had followed him from Boston and had threatened to make trouble for him. There had never been improper intimacy between them since they were in this State.

Hattle Gay testified that her child was born in Boston. Glover left that city and came to Brooklyn. She had heard where he was, and had come on here to make him support the child. He gives her $5 a week for its support. Miss Gay is about thirty years of age, and a cousin of the defendant.

Mr. Glover corroborated Miss Gray's statements, and told of having visited 201 Green street to see his child. He had given money for its support, and had carried the baby about. He desied that he had had any improper relations with Miss Gray at 201 Green street, 131 Kent or 165 Franklin street. He had never kissed her at any of these places.

Found—not lately, but 23 years ago— something that perfectly and permanently cures Catarrh in the Head. It's Dr. Sago's Catarrh Rem-edy—and THE edy - and where everything else fails, that cures.

The worst chronic cases yield to its mild, soothing, cleansing and healing properties. See if yours wont. The makers of this Remedy say it will. And they make you this offer: if they can't cure your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case, they'll pay you $500 in cash—and they mean it.

Here are some of the symptoms of Catarrh, the are some of the symptoms of Catarrh. Headache; obstruction of nose; discharges falling into throat, sometimes profuse, watery, and acrid, at others, thick, tenacious, mucous, bloody, putrid, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, thick, tenacious, mucous, bloody, putrid, and offensive; eyes weak, ringing in ears, deafness; offensive breath and impaired taste and sinell. You won't have all at once; you won't have any of them, if you'll take Dr. Sage's Remedy.
